

Abstract

Layer arrangement and process for producing a layer arrangement

The invention relates to a layer arrangement and to a process for producing a layer arrangement. The layer arrangement has a layer which is arranged on a substrate and includes a first subregion comprising decomposable material and a second subregion which is arranged next to the first subregion and has a useful structure comprising a non-decomposable material. Furthermore, the layer arrangement has a covering layer on the layer comprising decomposable material and the useful structure, the layer arrangement being designed in such a manner that the decomposable material can be removed from the layer arrangement.